Addison, Vermont's Riverside Hotel has transformed into a ski and snowboard center, with the opening of an indoor snow-skiing facility, adjacent to the hotel's indoor pool. I have fallen in love with skiing since elementary school. My stint at a boarding school in the Rocky Mountains resulted in a desire to learn more about skiing. In the years since my school days, I have learned to ski on nearly every type of terrain and discipline you can think of. Most recently, I spent a number of winters as a ski patroller. In these years, I have tried my hand at boarding, and even a little spelunking with a pick. The Sheraton, Riverside Hotel's new ski-in/ski-out snowboard resort promises a unique ski experience with an emphasis on the snowboard. After an hour of training, skiers can take to the snow slopes via a chair lift for a session on half-pipes, rails, and even go karts. The resort also includes a snowboard rental shop, as well as a retail shop for all things ski and snowboarding. Adjacent to the chair lift is a chairlift ride for all your snow sports needs. The Riverside Hotel says it has already received feedback from guests who enjoy the ski package as much as I do. The days are certainly short this time of year, but the feeling of skiing outside in the snow is priceless. The skiing at the Riverside Hotel definitely adds a new dimension to the area for skiers and snowboarders.
