Q: How can I overwrite the existing content and drag it on the new location in order to append it onto the new location instead of inserting/ appending it? So I have this website where I have multiple other tables, when ever a user inserts content onto one of those tables they can drag it to a different table and it appends onto the location. This works perfectly for now. I added a second table and it worked fine as well because I had the exact same logic as the first table. My problem is when I added a third table it appended content from the first two tables onto the new third table when I wanted it to overwrite the existing contents in the third table and append the new content onto the same table. How can I overwrite the existing content and drag it on the new location in order to append it onto the new location instead of inserting/ 3e33713323
