This free DLC adds the Rennsteig to the heart of Germany as a new destination. A ridge walk and historical boundary path in the Thuringian Forest and Highland in Central Germany. You can explore this new region all by yourself, or create new routes and transport passengers to the city of Oberhof or to the Treff Hotel Panorama. Two new destinations with bus stops in Oberhof and at Treff Hotel Panorama. Beautiful recreated landscape in the dense Thuringian Forest. Treff Hotel Panorama with ski jumping hill. Ohra hydro dam. Forest operation, huts, raised hides and hay racks for wildlife await you. Winding roads and lots of resting areas. Especially lovely during the winter. Gameplay Fernbus Simulator - Rennsteig: Key Features: Three mountains and lots of new roads throughout the Rennsteig. A new destination Oberhof. A new destination at Treff Hotel Panorama with the gorgeous landscape of the Thuringian Forest. Bus stops in Oberhof and at Treff Hotel Panorama. Two new routes available in the forest. Design your own routes through the Rennsteig. A wind farm in the middle of the forest. Ski jumping hill at Treff Hotel Panorama. Forums topic Why do bus stops at elevated positions when the bus routes go through the forests? That's almost like a little love joke the authors are trying to tell us. It's quite amusing to me. I've been very happy with the current content so far, but I hope to see a park in the snow with a variety of attractions, e.g. a wintergarden with some cute-looking meadows and lakes, a winter-surfastic beach, an ice-skating rink, a winter-theme pavilion and so on. I have one, two and a half hours of free time and 1030 min. of salary. What should I do? What a lovely DLC, very well done. Only a couple of things that were not well explained in the game... Also, it doesn't appear that bus numbers are in any order. It's not clear if the 32 is after the 22, the 45 after the 23.... It is a very good map, but I must say that this DLC will not be much use for the "alleged" new bus routes. I find that the bus routes are not as efficient as they should be, you just end up meeting almost
